News from Rochester Music Guild

Dedicated to Music Appreciation, Education and Performance Today and Tomorrow

Lunch and Learn: Friday, October 18, 2013

Art and Music: Making the Connection teaches the audience about important events in history and their influence on the development of art and music over the centuries. Trumpeters Ashley Hall and Nathan Tighe guide listeners in making connections between the elements of perspective, color, representation, and texture in art and music and trace their evolution through time and place. They will explore art from the Renaissance through Post-modernism along side live music from Palestrina to Berio. For more information visit: ashleyhalltrumpet.com.

President's Report

I have been very late in reaching out to the Rochester Music Guild's membership, for which I apologize. One of the purposes of the Rochester Music Guild is to enhance musical enrichment in our community and I've been doing just that conducting the pit orchestra for the Rochester Civic Theatre's production of "Les Misérables". Many of Rochester's finest musicians have been performing "Les Mis" over the past several weekends. It is musical excellence at its best. I hope you got a chance to attend the production.

I would like to welcome our new board members: Warren Bandel is our new membership chair, Corey Henke is the new Lunch & Learn chair and returning to the board is Judy Kereakos who is our historian. Judy is also going to be very busy with the Rochester Music Guild's 50th Anniversary Celebration next June 2014. Details will emerge about that weekend celebration as they are determined by the committee.

I don't need to tell you this, but the arts are a vital part of the Rochester community. We are so fortunate to live in a community where the arts are still thriving. Saying that, I know that it has been tough for many arts organizations in the past few years and ours is no exception. We need your help. Please renew your guild membership! More importantly reach out to a new person and ask them to become a member. We have only 200 members and in a community the size of Rochester, that's just not enough. I know there are many more supporters of the arts out there. In addition to your dues for the music guild, please consider a donation of whatever you can afford. Any financial contribution is considered great to us because we know it will help us maintain musical excellence in the things we do: support RSOC, Lunch & Learn, our annual Scholarship competition and more. You recently received our new brochure which contains the information you need to renew your membership, if you missed it, you can download it here. Please renew today!

Help the Rochester Music Guild to continue its support of the arts in Rochester.
